YANK GUNS SHUT TRAP ON AACHEN

Ship Workers Refuse to Return—Workers at the Fore River shipyard of the Bethlehem Steel Co. mill around the main gate of the plant following a mass meeting today in a nearby parking lot at which the 7500 striking sheet metal workers, pipe and shipfitters, and tack welders voted to remain away from work until the management meets their demands.

Yank Pincers Grip Aachen

By JAMES M. LONG

LONDON, Oct. 10 (AP) — American infantry closed the Aachen pincers with a web of machine gun and mortar fire today and built up pressure on a 25-mile front from six to 10 miles inside Germany for a break-through into the industrial Rhineland.

The jaws of Lt. Gen. Hodges' First Army pincers on Aachen could be considered closed, Associated Press Correspondent Don Whitehead reported, as it would be impossible for the Germans to escape in large numbers through direct fire of Yank gunners.

The bottling of Aachen's "fight to the death" defenders came as Lt. Gen. Patton's Third Army snapped a German bulge in the Nancy-Metz sector back into a straight line.

Elimination of this Nazi pocket was reported by Associated Press Correspondent Edward D. Ball who said Patton's Yanks had moved up into new positions extending from Fresnes-en-Saulois, 15 miles north and east of Nancy, to Cheminot, 18 miles due north of Nancy.

The First Army in the Aachen sector has forced a 25-mile front and was fighting on the approaches to Duren and Julich, highway keys to Cologne and Dusseldorf. Americans were six miles from Duren, 10 miles beyond Aachen and 20 from Cologne — and seven miles from Julich, where an excellent highway branches to Cologne 23 miles beyond and to Dusseldorf 26 miles away.

Hedges' troops had edged into the southern outskirts of Aachen, one-time center of Charlemagne's government, but the main assault on the city had not yet opened. Enemy garrisoned there perhaps numbered no more than 1500 men.

The Reich's stubborn defenders goaded to new fierceness by an order of the day from Marshal von Rundstedt, mounted one savage counterattack after another.

Weather-plagued Yanks hammered down the Nazi counterblows on both the First and Third Army fronts, and maintained their slow-moving offensive.

German losses were heavy and the Nazi commander in the west braced his troops fr a worse battering.

Canadians who cut into the Nazi pocket in the Schelde estuary yesterday with a seaborne landing were reported in a field dispatch t ohave advanced two and a half miles to snip the Nieuwlantschemolen-Biervliet railway.

Headquarters said these waterborne troops had made good progress, but bitter fighting still flared at the Canadian bridgehead over the Leopold canal.

The Third Army punch between Metz and Nancy rolled up 3355 prisoners in three days and seized at least 10 towns. At Ft. Driant, below Metz, doughboys still fought to overcome ingenious defenses, and had penetrated underground tunnels gaurded by steel doors.

Farther south the Seventh Army, advancing two miles east of Epinal, forced the Germans from the towns of Laveline and Herp - Elmont.

WESTERN FRONT—Gen. Hodges' First Army troops have closed the pincers to the east of Aachen, sweeping the last escape road with machine gun fire, while other American forces are building up pressure for drives toward Dusseldorf and Cologne.

2 Soviet Armies Drive On East Prussian City

By DANIEL DE LUCE

MOSCOW, Oct. 10 (AP)—A storm of Russian artillery fire broke today on besieged Memel while to the southward two Soviet armies wheeled and hurled their full weight into a drive on the East Prussian fortress city of Tilsit.

The great Baltic offensive of Gens. Bagramain and Chernakhovsky, ripping apart the German coastal flank protecting the heart of East Prussia, matched in spectacular success the sweep of Gen. Malinovsky's forces into northern Hungary.

There, after cutting the railway retreat routes behind the German and Hungarian forces in the northern Transylvanian salient, the Russian spearhead thrust into the outskirts of the Magyar military training center of Debrecen. General advances on the looping front put the Russian forces within 50 miles of Budapest.

(Berlin said the Russians were using nearly 1,000,000 men in the battle of the Lithuanian bulge in an effort to isolate 15 German divisions still in the Baltic area, and to spearheaed a thrust into Germany's easternmost province from the north.)

(The Berlin radio also said the Red army had launched a new offensive against Nazi lines in the Vistula river bend south of Warsaw.)

Battling fierce Nazi resistance, the Russians jabbed two prongs of a pincer north and south of Nemel. One Soviet column captured Kuliai, 11 miles from the Baltic port, while another took Vezaiciai, 12 miles from Memel and only three miles from the East Prussian border of March, 1939.

(In Stockholm, the newspaper Dagens Nyheter reported a sea battle off the Swedish island of Fargo.)

U. S. Troops Land On 10th Palau Isle

By Associated Press War Editor

American amphibious troops in the Western Pacific have established a firm beachhead on another of the Palau Islands—the 10th to be invaded in less than a month.

Only light opposition was encountered by soldiers of the 81st Army Division when they landed on Garakayo islet and pushed inland, Adm. Nimitz announced. Garakayo is two and a half miles north of Peleliu.

Twenty-five Liberators, escorted by fighters, made the first neutralizing strike ata Zamboanga, which has been a fortress guarding the southwestern tip of the Philippines since Spanish days.

Nimitz indicated that weather conditions may delay the Philippine invasion.

The admiral expressde concern over the present situation in China. He said: "We must make landings on the China coast in order to secure a land mass close enough to bomb Japan with all the air power available.

"The Pacific fleet is strong enough in combat vessels to go when we have the means to do it we will get the bases in China that we want."

The China-based 14th U. S. Air Force slashed at Japanese airdromes and land and river supply lines for enemy troops pressing toward the only remaining American air base in Southeast China.

American bombers twice hit Marcus island, 1135 miles southeast of Tokyo, and Iwo island, 750 miles south of the Japanese capital. Marine Corsairs from Peliu raided Babelthuap, largest of the Palau Islands. Long range Liberators again set fires in Japan's essential Borneo oil refineries at Balikpapan.

Allies Capture Ancient Corinth

By MICHAEL CHINIGO

ROME, Oct. 10 (INS)—The Allied campaign to liberate the Peloponnesus area of southern Greece was brought to a climax today with capture of historic Corinth.

Fall of the city to Allied land forces of the Adriatic presaged imminent liberation of Athens.

Operations headquarters reported the Germans were evacuating key army personnel from the Greek capital in the face of the swift advance of the Allies in cooperation with Greek patriot forces.

Rain, Mud Slow Up 5th in Italy

LONDON, Oct. 10 (AP)—Rain, mud and stiff German resistance have virtually halted the Allied advance toward the Po river in Italy, but the Fifth Army's heavy artillery now is keeping the Bologna-Rimini highway under systematic fire, headquarters disclosed today.

Hitler Praises Fanatical Youths

LONDON, Oct. 10 (AP)—The German radio said that Hitler lauded German youths today for what he called their "fanatical will to sacrifice in the hour of danger to our country."

The message, broadcast by the official German news agency DNB, was the first reported utterance from Hitler since shortly after the attempt on his life July 20.

The message was in reply to a report from Reich Youth Leader Axmann that 80 per cent of Potsdam's Hitler youth had volunteered for military service.

"With pride and joy I learned of the volunteers of the 1928 class," Hitler said. "In the hour of danger for our country their spirit and sacrifice has been a shining example."

Know There's a War On?

Letters Reveal Query Put Even to Children

Mothers, wives, sweethearts, discharged servicemen and even 'teen aged children are pouring a continuous flood of letters into the Boston American office today to vent their disgust against those who cover shortcomings with the everlasting query: "Don't you know there's a war on?"

Wives separated from their husbands by the finality of war and struggling along on meager allotments are particularly resentful about those who imply with the sarcastic question that they are not making any sacrifice.

Perhaps YOU, too, have become fed up with the constant repetition of this overworked question.

Then sit down and write a letter to the I-Know-There's-A-War-On Editor, Boston American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston 6, Mass. Tell in a letter not exceeding 100 words in length why YOU know that a war is going on and any experience you might have had with this foolish question.

For each letter published $3 will be paid, and a $50 War Bond will be awarded to the writer of the letter which the Editor deems best of all.

"Heaven knows there's not much to smile about in a war," writes Mrs. M.M.F. of Cambridge, "but our boys never let us down and their cheerful letters keep us as happy as possible. My husband has been in the South Pacific two years but he doesn't complain. Let's relegate THAT QUESTION to the ash heap of cliches. It is painful, unnecessary and un-funny."

"DYKTAWO? That's a nasty, foreign looking word and it means 'Don't you know there's a war on?' says G.O.W. of Cambridge. "It irks us all and should not be used as an excuse for short weight or gypping by anyone."

"Yes, I know," writes J.G. of Boston, "I spent a year in the Navy and saw my buddies die like men. I'm medically discharged and I fight now by buying War Bonds. I wish I could buy a million of them. If I had my way, I'd be out there fighting still."

"I'm a member of the Junior Red Cross and I buy War Stamps every week," says M.W. of West Concord. "I have three relatives in service, my sister is a blood donor and my mother works for the Red Cross. When we can't get the things we want, we know it's because our boys need them much more. Yes, I know there's a war on."

"I know there's a war on," says Mrs. S.R. of Medford, "because my home is so empty. My two children call for their daddy and it is so hard to explain that he is fighting in Uncle Sam's Navy. I wait and pray daily for victory so he will be back to fill our home with fun and laughter again."

Mom Has Hero-Son Jailed To Stop Wedding, Relents

DENVER, Oct. 10 (AP)—After four days in a jail cell, Charles Allen, 19-year-old discharged sailor, wound one arm around his bride, another around his mother, sure everything is going to be all right.

Juvenile Judge Philip B. Gilliam united Chadles and Jocena Wilkins, 22, of Colorado Springs, after Charles' mother, Mrs. Pearl Wiggins, last week wired police from Williston, Fla., asking them to stop her son's projected marriage.

Mrs. Wiggins, reaching Denver yesterday, also was satisfied. She said she just winted "to be sure" before giving her consent.

Young Allen is a veteran of over 20 naval engagements in the Pacific.

The newlyweds left today for Williston to visit Charles' father, chief of police there.

Fore River Near Complete Tie-Up

Complete tieup of production at the Fore River shipyard, one of New England's most important war plants, loomed today with reports welders and electricians were preparing to join more than 7500 workers who walked off the job today.

The striking workers gathered at the plant this morning and at a mass meeting in the parking area voted to continue the walkout until their demands were met. They requested a conference of company officials with their representatives.

No comment was available immediately from the plant management but strikers reported they had been informed the management was anxious for them to return to work in order to continue production before conferring with their leaders on the situation.

Striking sheet metal workers, pipe and ship-fitters and tack welders, however, said they had been trying to arrange such conferences without success for the past few months and insisted they would remain away from the job until the management agreed to confer.

There was no demonstration as the strikers gathered quietly at the plant, reported to their unit committees and then cast their votes to remain off the job. The majority of them left for home immediately.

Extra police were on duty, and all bars and package stores within a mile radius of the plant were ordered closed for duration of the walkout.

The latest strike, coming only three days after a walkout of 1900 welders had been settled, brought a warning from Plant Supt. John T. Wiseman that it would affect construction on battle cruisers and landing craft for the Navy.

In leaving their machines, the strikers ignored a plea from Capt. H. F. D. Davis, Navy supervisor of shipbuilding, that "anything you do to slow down production of these vitally needed ships at Quincy will result in a much greater loss of life in forthcoming military operations."

As each worker left the yard he was handed a copy of Capt. Davis' letter emphasizing the Navy's need for carriers and cruisers, also a leaflet prepared by union members listing demands as "a general wage increase, wage adjustments, retroactive pay and premium pay for Saturdays and Sundays regardless of how many hours had been worked during the week."

Mother and 3d Son Off to War

A 48-year-old Watertown housewife shook hands today with her 17-year-old son and each went away to war—she with the WAC and he with the Navy. Mrs. Mildred Barchard, 48, has now sent three sons to the Navy, and it is the memory of a tragic night in September, 1942, that inspired her to join the WAC and leave husband and home to give her services to America.

"That night a telegram came that my son, Seaman Oliver Barchard, who is 23, was missing in action in the South Pacific. Our house seemed like a funeral house the next day," she said.

"The next night a telegram came through that he was a wounded survivor of his sunken ship. Although he has returned to this country, badly wounded, I am so grateful his life was spared that this seemed to be the only way I could show my thanks."

The son who left today is Donald Eugene, headed for boot training at Sampson, N. Y. Her second son, Seaman Kenneth, 19, is now at Newport after two years in the Navy.

"When I heard the age limit for the WAC was 50, I signed up without telling a soul except my husband," she said. "The training at Ft. Oglethorpe will be hard after a lifetime of homemaking, but if your heart's in the right place, you can take it."

Meanwhile, her husband, Oliver Barchard, a laundry salesman, will hold the fort at their Paul st., Watertown, home, until the flock comes home.

A veteran of World War I, he knows a lot about war and is proud to see them go. His wife has seen to it that relatives will me there to keep house and take care of him.

Bricker Sees Curb Tied On New Deal Spending

SPOKANE, WASH., Oct. 10 (AP)—The Republican minority in Congress, Gov. Bricker asserted today, has broken the back of the New Deal's disorganized financial program, and better days are in sight.

The Republican candidate for vice-president, beginning a two-day tour of Washington after spending yesterday in Montana, said that Republicans with the help of thoughtful Democrats had saved the taxpayers millions in non-essential expenditures.

An up hill fight, he related produced this record:

Elimination of an $80,000,000 budget for the Civilian Conservation Corps for 1943.

Elimination of a $55,000,000 appropriation for the National Youth Administration, "thereby putting an end to its debatable activities."

Reduction of an appropriation for the Office of War Information domestic branch from $8,865,906 to $2,750,000 "thus checking its political propaganda activities."

A slash of $22,300,000 in the requested appropriation for the OPA for 1944.

And elimination of the WPA "thus returning an unexpended balance of $106,500,000 to the Treasury."

In contrast to this record, the Ohio governor said, the Democrats promised a reduction of 25 per cent in Federal government costs, then increased Federal expenditures 56 per cent in the first year of their Administration.

Tobin, Cahill in Wrangle Over Who's Got Red Vote

The gubernatorial fight between Mayor Tobin and his Republican opponent, Lt. Gov. Cahill, becomes a no-holds-barred affray today after the two candidates engaged in a heated argument over Communist support in an old-fashioned campaign debate in Worcester.

Tobin and Cahill spoke from the same platform for the first time in the campaign before 500 members of the Worcester Probus Club. The lieutenant-governor started a brief but fiery exchange when he charged the Boston mayor deliberately ignored mention of his endorsement by the Political Action Committee.

Cahill termed the Political Action Committee a Communist group which our people are viewing with great suspicion. Tobin retaliated with the assertion that the Communists cast 5000 votes in the last state election and "you can have them all, Mr. Cahill."

Earlier, in the first platform debate to mark a Massachusetts campaign in several years, both candidates spoke for 30 minutes in outlining their qualifications.

Tobin attacked the Republican state administration for taking over tax revenues which, he said, belong to the cities and towns, and said as a result the Bay State ranked second in the nation for foreclosures on homes.

Cahill retorted that most of the foreclosures have been in Boston.

Churchill Sees Stalin 3 Hours

MOSCOW, Oct. 10 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill talked with Marshal Stalin for three hours in the Kremlin last night and conferred today with the British diplomatic and military staff before starting a second meeting with the Russian Premier.

W. Averell Harriman, United States ambassador, was kept fully informed by the British delegation, although he was not present at the Kremlin last night.

Churchill was understood to be presenting his views on questions in Europe and elsewhere—views which were said to have been fully endorsed before he left the Quebec conference with President Roosevelt.

The latest indications were his visit would last through this week.

His presence in Moscow coincided with two important statements in the Russian press. One expressed flat opposition to altering the principal of a unanimous vote by the four major Allied powers on the international security council, in case of aggression. The other statement disclosed a Russian plan for developing oil resources in the northern part of Iran.

Some Iran (Persia) fields have been controlled by Britain for a century. The country now is occupied jointly by British troops in the south and Russians in the north.

One obvious topic of the Churchill-Stalin conversation, was final defeat and occupation of Germany. Another was the general outline of postwar Europe. The possibility was not excluded that the exchange of opinions would include other areas of the world.

Izvestia, praising the Dumbarton Oaks plan for international security, stoutly supported the principle of a unanimous four-power agreement on cases of aggression.

Thousands of Disciples Attend Last Rites for Aimee

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10 (AP)—The body of Evangelist Aimee Semple McPherson lies today on a sun-drenched slope of Forest Lawn Memorial Park in a white marble sarcophagus to which she was committed in yesterday's twilight amid the reverent silence of several thousand of her disciples.

Entombment of her immense bronze casket took place five hours after the opening of funeral services in Angelus Temple, the heart of the Four Square Gospel Church founded by her more than two decades ago and now an international institution.

Twelve ministers struggled more than 20 minutes to carry Mrs. McPherson's 1400-pound casket up a 400-foot slope from the highway to the $10,000 sarcophagus. The tomb was at the intersection of a 400-foot cross outlined on the greensward in flowers.

As the pallbearers ascended the slope, the Angelus Temple uniformed mixed choir of 150 voices sang "Goin' Home." Many of the assembled followers wept.

The sarcophagus, 30 feet long and with kneeling angels guarding either end, was erected by the evangelist 10 years ago.

Among the graveside mourners was her son, Rolf, who succeeds her to the presidency of Angelus Temple; her mother, Mrs. Minnie (Ma) Kennedy, once estranged from her golden-haired daughter, and Harold McPherson of Ocala, Fla., from whom she was divorced many years ago.

Medford Chaplain Tells of War Front

By ALICE BISSELL

A rough, tough soldier with a yen for strong drink went straight from the battlefield to town to buy a big bottle of wine.

He wanted to drown away the tragic memories of battle that only a fighting man would understand.

When the private got to town, he decided to buy a bunch of white lilies with the money he'd saved for wine.

He was a little embarrassed when he handed the lilies to the chaplain and asked that they be put on the altar.

After attending religious services, he said to the chaplain, "Say, that sure drowned my sorrows, sir."

This story was told today by Maj. Edwin W. Andrews, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Andrews of Medford, to illustrate the faith that thousands of our men of all denominations have found through months and years of suffering and need for courage.

The major, a Passionist priest who, after 28 months of service in Europe, had a furlough with relatives, Mr. and Mrs. William O'Donnell of Grant ave., Medford, leaves again for overseas today.

Like all American soldiers, he took no credit for his own part, but praised chaplains of all faiths and all men and women fighting abroad.

A pitcher on the Medford High baseball team 20 years ago, the chaplain is deeply loved by the soldiers whose spiritual needs in war he understands like a brother.

"Everyone knows that a chaplain tries to care for the happiness of the men; be near them at the fighting front; writes letters; give them advice; arrange trips for them on furloughs," he said.

But the greatest reward for these chaplains, whose only weapon under fire is their faith in God, is the sight of soldiers flocking to church when nobody is asking them to go.

"I remember a Christmas Eve at Oran. The blackout rules were so strict that a chaplain read midnight mass by a flashlight held by a soldier," said Maj. Andrews.

He was knee-deep in mud on a mountainside. Hundreds of soldiers knelt in the mud at mass in the darkness before him.

The boys build churches in marble quarries where bombings won't injure them. They build churches in tents. The altar is made of packing cases for plane engines; the candles from shell-containers; the drapes from parachute cloth riddled by shellfire or torn gauze that medical men find unfit for bandages.

Paris Vengeance

PARIS, Oct. 10 (INS)—Parisians who suffered four years of Nazi occupation demonstrated to day they had few doubts about what to do with Hitler.

A newspaper poll conducted in the French capital found that 40 per cent of the Parisians favored shooting him. Thirty per cent suggested torture before death, 15 per cent believed life imprisonment best for the Fuehrer.

One per cent had no idea what to do with him.

Says British Plan Bill Against U. S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—Back from a tour of England, Rep. Miller (R.) of Nebraska, predicted today the United States "not only won't collect anything for lend lease and given to Great Britain" but probably will be billed for aid given it by the British.

"This is sour and I hate to mention it," Miller said in an interview, "but I saw an official English statement that the British are keeping a record of all man-hours of labor used to move American troops and equipment and that it is going to be charged against us when the war is over."

The record, he added, includes service and labor used "for moving troops across the channel to the continent." Also, he said, it covers "everything from shoe polish to liquor."

Worth's Fashions Well Embroidered

By LORELLE HEARST

Special Correspondent, Boston Evening American

PARIS, Oct. 10—The House of Worth opened very early in the morning.

We in America have in the past thought of Worth's as a house of good taste, but conservative. It now has a young son to head it and has done a collection that is very young and beautiful with the handiwork for which Paris is so famous.

It is the most elegant collection I have seen so far. All the silks and wools are pure and beautifully handwoven with exquisite embroidery.

The show opened with a French blue wool tunic street dress.

The tunic flares in fullness over one hip, with the skirt under this straight and tight. The shoulders are cut in one piece with full drapery falling to the waistline. Over this is worn a civet cat fur fingertip jacket, fitted in tight at the waistline with a hood one sees so much in all collections.

In a very definite leaning toward the Turkish trend, Worth's afternoon dresses had full skirts tucked under at the hems like a girl's harem. The material was of silk jersey and had a thinning look.

There was a black water silk afternoon dress which was pretty and youthful, with full shoulders and elbow-length sleeves.

The skirt had soft drapes over each hip with a circular bottom. Over this was a luscious tomato red Duvetyn jacket, long and full in the front, while the back was shorter with flat box pleats.

Naturally this outfit had a doll waist.

One of the most ladylike suits I have ever seen was in black velvet with a doll waist, fastened small gold clips on the side over the heart and a tight skirt. Under the jacket was a leopard waistcoat over an emerald green crepe blouse.

The suits in this collection were of rich elegance and cut beautifully to flatter the figure.

One was of black wool with drapery off the shoulder and black velvet buttons running in a double row down the front. There were also two velvet buttons in the small back straight skirt and under this suit was a pale crepe blouse with a high collar and two rows of small buttons down the front.

On the back of the blouse were black velvet and embroidered jet flowers.

A natural colored wool coat that was very unusual had folds over the vest and fell into the full skirt fitted waist with large buttons of the same material.

However, the unusual thing about the coat were the sleeves. They were full, and coming out of the lining were black Persian lamb cuffs. They were huge. You can either wear them turned back as cuffs or turn them down over your hands and use them as a muff.

Worth's made a terrific play in blouses.

They had several embroidered like an old Spanish shawl, one being black with an embroidery shape Eton jacket.

They were all in pastel shades and had exquisite silk embroidery either all over or on the back.

Furs were very important in all collections.

There was one in the house which warmed my heart.

It was a black Persian lamb, thinning, soft and made so one can wear it in the evening or daytime.

The waist was fitted very tight with a wide flared skirt. It has a black satin shawl collar embroidered in black silk braid which was also in evidence across the small of the back.

Camel hair is being used at its best here. It has been used in every possible way for coats.

There were few evening dresses and all were covered with one exception. This was of butterscotch color taffeta, bare shoulders, lots of puffs on high with embroidered colors of the rainbow.

Over this was worn a dove grey taffeta jacket, fitted at the waistline and very full to the fingertips.

Bridges for Probe Of Capital Brawl

Demands that Atty. Gen. Francis Biddle investigate the beating of two Naval officers in Washington Sept. 23 by members of the Teamsters Union today swept the nation, with U. S. Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire among the latest to join the crusade for appropriate action.

Bridges pointed out that the officers were attacked because they refused to tell how they intended to vote in the coming Presidential election, a matter that constitutes a criminal offense.

The victims of the assault were Lt. Randolph Dickins, Jr., bemedalled hero of the battle of the Midway and other South Pacific engagements, and Lt. Comdr. James H. Sudduth.

The men had gone to the hotel looking for a dance when they were confronted by members of the Teamsters Union who asked them if they were going to vote "for the Commander-in-Chief." It was shortly after President Roosevelt spoke at the hotel.

When the naval officers, standing on their rights, replied "None of your business" they were set upon and beaten and had to fight their way out of a group who surrounded them.

Lt. Dickins could not identify pictures of Daniel Tobin, head of the Teamsters Union, as one of the men who struck him, though he said one of the union men reproached him for having struck a "personal friend of the President."

Probe Demand Grows "Battle of Statler"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (INS)—Congressional demands for Atty. Gen. Biddle to investigate the "Battle of the Statler" increased today as Sen. Green (D.) of Rhode Island, chairman of the Senate Campaign Funds Committee, said he was "undecided" whether his group would make a full inquiry.

Reps. Stevenson and Keefe, Wisconsin Republicans, joining the demand for an investigation, said Biddle had authority under the federal voting law to seek indictment of the members of the AFL's Teamsters Union who were involved in the melee which was preceded by their inquiries of the officers' political beliefs.

Robert T. Murphy, Senate committee counsel, admitted that Capt. Dickins, father of Lt. Dickins had been questioned and that shore patrol records of both men had been examined, but that none of the teamsters' union officials had been approached.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (INS)—Rep. Anderson (D.) of New Mexico, chairman of the House committee investigating campaign expenditures, disclosed today he plans to make a personal check of every piece of printed matter mailed free at government expense under the congressional franking privilege.

The purpose of the probe, Anderson stated, is to determine "how many were political."

She became engaged to Bill when he was in the Navy, but his Navy hitch expired and he was drafted into the Army. Just before being released from the Army they were married, and went on a honeymoon as soon as he was out. He later enlisted in the Coast Guard.

Nation's Notables Attend Willkie Rites

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—Distinguished Americans gathered here today for the funeral of Wendell L. Willkie. Among the mourners who arranged to attend the services at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church were Gov. Dewey, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, representing the President, and Gov. Saltonstall of Massachusetts.

The body will be accompanied to Rushville, Ind., Willkie's birthplace, by his brother, Edward.

It will be placed in a crypt awaiting the arrival of Mrs. Willkie, who will remain in New York for the return of her son, Lt. (jg) Philip Willkie, USNR, from Atlantic convoy duty. He will accompany his mother to Rushville for the burial.

Rev. Dr. John Sutherland Bonnell, pastor, was to conduct the funeral services.

At midnight, when the doors were closed, police estimated more than 60,000 persons had visited the church where Willkie's body was lain in state since 1:30 p. m. yesterday.

Dewey Joins in Last Tribute to Willkie

ALBANY, Oct. 10 (AP)—On the verge of his final drive for the Presidency, Gov. Dewey took time out from campaign planning today to pay final respects to the man who defeated him for the 1940 Republican nomination.

The New York Governor booked passage on a train this morning for New York city, where funeral services were set for 3 p. m. in Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church for Wendell L. Willkie.

Dewey planned to return to Albany immediately after the services to prepare for a political swing through the middle west and New England.

Beyond doubt, his associates said, he will devote at least one major speech to the momentous task of settling up a postwar peace organization.

Chinese Execute Officer for Failure

CHUNGKING, Oct. 10 (AP)—The Chinese high command announced today that Col. Tsao Cheng, a regimental commander, had been executed Oct. 7 for failing to carry out his orders in connection with the defense of Pingnan, West river town in Kwangsi province, recently captured by the Japanese.

Willkie Booklet His 'Last Word'

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—Voters were urged in the foreword of a pamphlet, "An American Program," by Wendell L. Willkie, who died Sunday without publicly disclosing his presidential choice, to demand from candidates "meaningful statements" on "our international obligations and our attitude on racial minorities."

The foreword to the pamphlet, scheduled for publication today by Simon and Schuster, Inc., was dated Sept. 25 and presumably was Willkie's last writing on the election campaign. Lamoyne A. Jones, his press secretary for four years, said he left no unpublished work.

'Ride' Victim's Condition Poor

Patrick Farina, 32, of Bataan ct., Roxbury, was in a "very poor condition" at Weymouth Hospital today, but begging surgeons to probe for two slugs fired into him by revengeful gangsters who he said took him for a ride Sunday.

Police are searching for two Boston ex-convicts named by Farina as his assailants in a shooting near the Weymouth-Braintree line.

One of the bullets is lodged under Farina's eye, the other is under his heart. His condition is such that an operation is not feasible, doctors said. Farina has told them, "Get the lead out of me and I'll live."

He is under a police guard day and night. Only his wife and his father have been allowed to visit him.

Although the Roxbury man has been conscious except for intervals of sleep, his vitality remains low and his temperature high. It was 103 today.

Hines Tells of Plans to Care For Every Returning Vet

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (INS)—How the government has arranged for the care and readjustment of every returning veteran, whether disabled or not, was told by Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, at a meeting under auspices of the New York Times.

Asserting that "never before in our history has the general public shown so much interest in plans for the returning veteran," Gen. Hines discussed the benefits generally available to any person who served in the armed forces during World War II for 90 days or more and was honorably discharged.

Principal benefits, he explained, are aid in securing employment, education and vocational rehabilitation, the privilege of continuing insurance at favorable premium rates, medical treatment and hospital care, guaranty of loans, unemployment allowances and pensions for disabled veterans and their dependents.

To illustrate, Gen. Hines told the story of "GI Joe," a handsome 22-year-old Marine, blinded in line of duty.

The Veterans' Administration arranged for him to enter a pre-legal course at a large university with all expenses paid, provided maintenance allowance for him and his wife, and payment of 60 cents an hour to the latter for reading to him.

Reds Hold Pope Urges Allies to Forgive Hitler

Special to the Boston American

LONDON, Oct. 10—The Soviet publication War and the Working Class charged that the Vatican has aided "pro-Fascist marionettes" who have urged that the Allies forgive Adolf Hitler and others in the Nazi hierarchy.

The Exchange Telegraph Agency quoted the Trade Union Journal as adding that Pope Pius had refused to help hundreds of Catholic priests jailed in Spain by order of Franco "for defending democracy."

As reported by the British news agency, the article appearing in the Soviet publication declared:

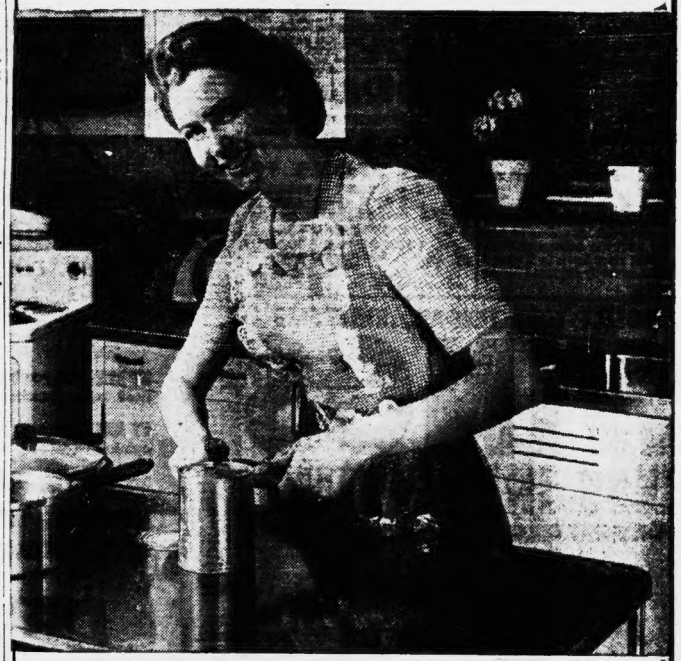
"Since the liberation of Rome the Pope has concentrated on foreign policy.

"The pro-Fascist marionettes, Petain and Pavelich, helped by the Vatican, are urging that the Allies forgive Hitler, Goering and Himmler in spite of the contrary wishes of Catholic populations.

"The Vatican aided Franco, Hitler and Mussolini overthrow the democratic government in Spain but still refuses to help hundreds of Catholic priests jailed by Franco for defending democracy.

"The Vatican regards Franco Spain as a model for the countries of post-war Europe."

Why Housewives Can Still Get Food in Cans



Much of the food the housewife buys in cans today would not be available were it not for the new electrolytic tinning process developed by U. S. Steel. Our armed forces and lend-lease requirements have first call on the limited tin supply, but this revolutionary method of tinning saves two-thirds of the tin formerly used, and makes it possible also to provide a large proportion of cans needed for civilian foods. This electrolytic method produces an amazingly thin, uniform coating, and, with it, U. S. Steel alone has saved the nation more than five million pounds of tin to date.

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—I would appreciate if you would answer the following questions:

1—Can the beneficiary of a National Service Life Insurance policy be changed after he has received the Certificate of Insurance? 2- Can two relatives be named as beneficiaries, one for the six months pay gratuity and the other insurance? 3—Legally who should be made beneficiary on servicemen's policies, a parent or brother? 4—A serviceman has a parent and brothers, one of whom is married and named beneficiary. Who would be next beneficiary? W. B., Chicopee.

A—1—Changed anytime the serviceman desires, as long as the beneficiary is either, wife, child, parent, brother or sister.

2—Six months gratuity pay is awarded only to the person designated as next-of-kin. Only the beneficiary named receives insurance payments.

3—Refer to answer on question No. 1.

4—Only beneficiaries named by serviceman will receive payments.

Q—My brother was killed in action. That is all the information we received. How can we find out more as to how he met death, burial location and by whom buried? J. R., Brookline.

A—Desired information may be obtained if records of your brother's death are presently available to War Dept. officials. Write Adjutant General James Ulio, War Department, Washington, D. C.

Q—I have been a Reserve Officer since 1929. On Aug. 12, 1942, I was called to active duty. Five months later I reverted back to inactive status.

After being home one week I received through the mail a discharge "under conditions other than honorable." I was stunned, as no charges had ever been placed against me and I was given no opportunity to defend myself. Can you outline method of procedure? M. J. B., Taunton.

A—Your status comes under the GI Bill of Rights provision, which allows you to seek a review of discharge on the basis of facts stated above. You should write the Secretary of War and inform him that you desire a Board of Review to examine the facts in your case under the provisions of the Servicemen's Act of 1944.

This particular legislation in the recently enacted bill was strongly advocated and introduced by the Massachusetts State Department of the American Legion, following information received at the State House last winter of the issuance of many unfair discharges to honorable servicemen.

(Questions addressed to Veterans' Friend Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston 6, Mass., will be answered in this daily column.)

Spurns Army, Gets Term in Pen

When he refused a last chance to comply with draft laws, William Edward Broskoskie, 30, a brakeman of South Easton, today was sentenced by Federal Judge George C. Sweeney to three years in the penitentiary.

Broskoskie, who said he is a member of Jehova's Witnesses, was found guilty of not reporting for physical examination in July, 1943.

"Do you wish to go into the service now?" asked the judge before sentencing him.

"No," said Broskoskie, shaking his head, "I do not believe in armed combat."

Clip Coupon NOW To Cheer Buddies

No matter what the calendar says, next Saturday is Christmas.

That is, it's Christmas for millions of servicemen overseas because it's the last day, except in the Boston main postoffice, when you can mail their Christmas to them.

Next Saturday all the smaller postoffices will shut their windows on the deadline for happiness to soldiers, sailors, marines and the auxiliary services and so this, as circus folk say, is ab-so-lute-ly the last call to enroll in the Christmas Gifts to Buddies Overseas campaign sponsored by the Boston American, Record and Sunday Advertiser.

Clip that coupon - NOW. Rush it to the office of this newspaper and names will be sent you all the names you want of servicemen anywhere and everywhere who, except for you, may know no Christmas joy this year.

Then rush your packages to the postoffice, as soon as you can but surely before Saturday. Because Saturday (Sunday at the one main postoffice) is the very last day for putting your packing aboard Uncle Sam's Christmas ships.

It's a certainty there will be such a package on that ship from Malcolm Osborn of Lincoln, Me. because he wrote:

"I would like the name of a soldier in the infantry in France. I lost my brother in France, and I want to send a box to some soldier who is fighting where my brother would still be fighting if he hadn't been killed in action. I am 16 years old. I'll be old enough to enlist in a few more months."

Yes, and in that package for that unknown soldier there will be all the good things that 16-year-old Malcolm can cram into it. Since he can't send them to his hero brother, he's going to do the next best thing.

Your package should go right along with Malcolm's, because there are many servicemen who haven't any brothers, any fathers or mothers or other relatives, to send them anything.

And what will Christmas mean to them if their buddies get gifts from home and they don't?

Packages must weigh not more than five pounds and must not contain any intoxicants, breakables, perishable foods or inflammable materials. That's all it's necessary to remember — and don't forget to remember, as the song has it, to mail the coupon, and the package, NOW

Brands Heiress Youth Slayer

SALINAS, Cal., Oct. 10 (AP)—Dist. Atty. Anthony Brazil, summing up his case against Mrs. Frances Andrews, described her as a jealous woman who plotted a murder and planned to write it off as a suicide.

"She was playing the role of her life" and "overplayed the role," the prosecutor declared in his five hour argument to the jury trying the 37-year-old heiress on a charge of murdering Jay Lovett, 19.

Mrs. Andrews today.

The case is expected to go to the jury Friday. The defense opens final arguments today.

World Police Force Plan Faces Gauntlet

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—Government plans to put the United States into a world organization backed by force headed for a storm of national debate today, with President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull apparently seeking to prevent possible disagreement on any single issue from wrecking the whole enterprise.

This strategy is considered responsible for the determination of officials to refrain now from bringing into the debate the question of whether Congress should have to give its approval each time the world organization calls for American men, guns, ships and planes to suppress a threatening aggressor.

An authoritative analysis at the State Department of the Dumbarton Oaks security plan, shows that it fails to call for any such strong commitment on the part of the United States. It provides instead only for the promise to undertake to supply forces in accord with constitutional processes.

Another point not now subject to discussion is that of the voting arrangements within the proposed 11-member security council. This stalled because Russia wanted the right for each big power to vote in a dispute in which it was involved, while this country and Britain argued that in such a case the power should not participate in the decision.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that their real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 60 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

BOOK OF FAITH

THIS IS the week annually designated in the United States as National Bible Week, for the encouragement of the American people in their better understanding and higher appreciation of our national BOOK OF FAITH.

The Bible is a HOLY book.
It is a WISE book.
It is INSTRUCTIVE.
It is INSPIRING.
It is BEAUTIFUL.
It is COMFORTING.

The American people BELIEVE in the Bible.

They LOVE and RESPECT it.
They HONOR and TRUST it.

The Holy Bible is truly our American BOOK OF FAITH, to which we turn in time of triumph or tribulation, confident of its wisdom and supremely sure of its utter goodness.

We read it instinctively with REVERENCE.

We read it trustingly with HOPE.
We read it unfailingly with PROFIT.
The Bible is a source of COURAGE.
It is a source of STRENGTH.

WHEN THE Bible is read in a time of tribulation, it brings patience to those under stress, spirit to the downhearted, solace to the stricken.

When it is read in a time of triumph, it brings a consciousness of responsibility, an understanding of the virtues of mercy and compassion.

The humble are made STRONG by the Bible. The proud are made TOLERANT by it.

Indeed, the Bible IS holy, and our American faith in it is the richest thing in our national life.

It teaches us to be CHARITABLE to those among us who have had misfortune.

It teaches us to be FORGIVING of those among us who have erred or sinned against us.

It teaches us to be MERCIFUL toward those over whom we have rightfully prevailed.

It teaches us to be JUST in all our judgments, and in all our opinions and decisions.

Our American ideals are derived from the Bible.

The FREEDOM we enjoy and cherish is a fulfillment of Biblical promise.

The institutions of JUSTICE we maintain and uphold emulate Biblical teachings and example.

The principles of BROTHERHOOD we practice are in the Biblical spirit and inspiration.

Our American belief in EQUALITY is of Biblical origin.

Our American faith in OPPORTUNITY is a Biblical concept.

WE SHOULD surely know the Bible BETTER, and appreciate it MORE.

A week devoted annually to emphasis upon it, instruction in it, inspiration from it, is a wonderfully GOOD thing.

It is to the great credit of the Laymen's National Committee, which first suggested and now sponsors the National Bible Week observance, that a national expression of religious reverence is held to be of such vast importance.

It is to the greater credit of the American people that the National Bible Week observance, now in its fourth year, has become an earnest and universal observance and is assured of being a PERMANENT observance.

Let us always be strong and steadfast in our faith, for it is in such a faith that America is rich and powerful—and beyond that, it is in such a faith that the hope of mankind for peace and dignity and happiness is kindled and will be ultimately made secure.

O joy! O bliss of blisses
My heart of hearts art thou,
Come bathe me with thy kisses
My eyelids and my brow
- TENNYSON.

TENNYSON was a great poet. Nevertheless, even his most enthusiastic admirers must admit that the above lines bear a strong resemblance to that popular song of Tin Pan Alley origin titled, "Honey, Smother Me With Kisses and Cover Me With Love." . . . The British are worrying about their birth rate. The Earl of Dudley of the House of Lords is particularly worried. He suggests newly married English girls have five babies; one a year for five years. According to the experts on the subject, blessed events should be spaced two years apart. This system is claimed to produce the best babies. To have five children, according to this plan, would take nine years instead of five. Generally speaking, most women wouldn't mind having five children. However, they worry about having enough money to bring that many children up the way they would like to ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: A man who smokes a cigar in a holder doesn't deserve to have the privilege of smoking a good cigar . . . Am asked if I care for that culinary combination known as a New England boiled dinner. Can't say I care for it very much. Brown bread and baked beans is my favorite among the New England specialties . . . "My husband is a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity. What do you think of that?" writes a Detroiter. It is a nice little fraternity and has a good future. However, the best college fraternity is, of course, the Psi Upsilon.

SOCIAL ERROR: One day last week I passed Lucius Throckmorton Beebe on the street. The next day he wrote in his column: "Tan boots are a blue suit make a man look like a yokel." Probably just a coincidence but when I passed Mr. Beebe I was wearing my elegant new tan shoes and my nifty blue serge suit. I thought I looked pretty snappy. Evidently I was wrong about that. I will have to get a pair of black shoes to go with my blue suit. And, in the meanwhile I must find out from Mr. Beebe if it is all right to wear my tan boots with my gray flannel suit. Or should I continue my tan boots to when I am wearing my tweeds?

SIDELIGHTS: A firm name that appeals to me is that of the Pennsylvania Company for Insurance on Lives and Granting Annuities . . . Edgar Bergen has his whimsical dummy, Charlie McCarthy, insured for $4800 against fire and theft . . . A Wisconsin safety first expert says the most dangerous play in football is the forward pass. I question that. I believe more players have been killed or injured in line plays than in any others. When I was a kid playing high school football the boy playing next to me in the line was killed instantly during a line buck of tackle.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Let's have it settled: Is it bad manners for a man to keep his hat on in a department store elevator? A—There is a great difference of opinion as to this. I think if there are not too many women in the elevator the man should remove his hat. This pleases the ladies. It is so difficult to please the ladies that no opportunity to do so should be overlooked. However, if the elevator is crowded I advise the man to keep his hat on. If he doesn't, he is very likely to have it crushed out of shape. Q—San Francisco no longer has any street cars on which you can ride for a nickel. What cities still have a five-cent fare street cars and buses? A—Can't answer your question completely. All I know is that New York City still has a five-cent fare on street cars, buses and subway. Q—Are you still claiming it possible for a dentist successfully to transplant teeth? A—I know of a dentist who has transplanted teeth for many people. However, I am not qualified to state whether or not such a procedure is advantageous. Still, I have had letters from people who have had teeth transplanted and they seem very well satisfied.

PLEASE NOTE: "Japs Copy U. S. in Use of War Dogs" is heading on a newspaper item dealing with claim the Nipponese have imitated the Americans in using dogs in battle. That's not right. There is no use in underestimating an enemy. The Japs have known about war dogs for years. In fact, for about seven years before Pearl Harbor the Japanese bought all the champion German shepherd dogs they could in order to use them for breeding war dogs.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10—The reason why I hammer away on the subject of labor in this campaign, is that I claim President Roosevelt has seduced and betrayed all of us who work for our living, through demagogic and hypocritical appeals to one of our better instincts.

Westbrook Pegler

Mr. Roosevelt's method has been to deliver labor from the power of the employers into the power of the union bosses, so many of whom are brutal, ruthless men, some of them conspiratorial Communists, some underworld gangsters, some cruel because they are ignorant, others cruel because they are highly intelligent but equally heartless.

It is in the union movement, itself, that the coercion, oppression, persecution and denial of civic and human rights now are inflicted on the workers.

Mr. Roosevelt's administration drove millions of men and women into unions for purposes which have become alarmingly apparent in this campaign. He wanted their money for his campaign funds and the power and skill of the professional unioneer for his political organization.

His Wagner Act provided penalties against employers who coerce men and women to stay out of unions. But it did not forbid coercion and intimidation by union organizers.

★ ★ ★

WE SAW some of the results in the great civil war which raged over Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania when the CIO was shaping up under John L. Lewis, at the time one of Mr. Roosevelt's loyal and ruthless henchmen.

This was not mere strike trouble. It was civil war. Great gangs of strangers, trained, schooled and organized, would filter into a city, sign up a few local workers as the nucleus of a new union and then go into the streets to riot, pillage and terrorize.

In most cases, local government was irresolute or frightened. In Michigan, Gov. Frank Murphy, either flinched or intentionally defaulted his sworn duty.

The people, American labor, thereafter repudiated him at the polls and then Mr. Roosevelt elevated him, successively, to the posts of Attorney-General and Justice of the Supreme Court.

MOB RULE is a terrible thing. The citizen sees all authority discredited and loses confidence in a free people to rule themselves.

So thousands of men and women joined out of fear and as the price of personal safety and peace which they were entitled to, anyway. They were not allowed to select "bargaining agents." They were forced to accept "bargaining agents" with commotion, insurrection, injury and death as the alternative.

Our law forbade the importation of professional strike-breakers and strong-arm men across State lines by large employers but no parallel law existed to punish those professional unioneers who imported terrorists to blockade plants and cripple whole areas of industry by tying up key, strategic works such as power stations.

Mr. Roosevelt's group in the Senate prevented the adoption of any such law. And the power to cripple whole areas was not restricted and therefore revolutionaries, Communists in the main, were handed a weapon with which they might yet bring the whole nation to its knees without the requirement of even a pretense of a labor dispute between an employer and workers.

★ ★ ★

ASIDE FROM the faulty and creaky Smith-Connally law, we have no Federal statute restricting the power of union bosses to call strikes, sit-downs or walkouts.

Any business agent can "strike a job" on his own decision for all that any national law says to the contrary. The law does not require a majority vote of the workers, themselves.

Mr. Roosevelt's administration prevented passage of any law which would abolish this power which certainly is a menace to the interests of all American labor.

★ ★ ★

THERE IS no standard constitution for unions and consequently some union constitutions outrageously violate the rights of men and women who are forced to join them.

One, for example, compels involuntary joiners as well as voluntary members, to buy life insurance through the union, a percentage of the premium being paid by the insurance company to the son of the union's president.

Another has been amended to keep the union president in office for life. These are samples of the conditions put upon the people by Mr. Roosevelt while he was professing to liberate them from coercion and fear.

Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 10—Here's a little secret I haven't told David Selznick I know. He has made all plans to put "Mayerling" on the screen with Ingrid Bergman and Charles Boyer in the leads. Sam Woods, whose "Jubal Troop" has been postponed, is being sought to direct the famous play which was originally responsible for bringing Charles Boyer to this country.

Ingrid Bergman

I happened to hear Charles was on the lot and discovered "Mayerling" was the reason. When he made it in Europe Danielle Darrieux was his co-star. It was also responsible in bringing her to America.

NO GETTING away from it Warners have certainly done well at the box office with stories about unscrupulous dames. "Mr. Skeffington" has been a surprise cleanup—I say surprise because it isn't one of Bette Davis' greatest pictures and she plays a woman who has hardly one redeeming quality. Now Warners have "Intrigue" coming, a Rita Wiman Cosmopolitan story, which will give Ida Lupino a chance to be a million from start to finish.

JUST LIKE in a book, Elizabeth Scott, understudy to Tallulah Bankhead, had a chance to go on one night in "Skin of Our Teeth" when the incomparable Tallulah was ill. She made good and received some very complimentary notices from the critics; so good that when the show opened in Boston she had the Bankhead role. Now she's been signed by Hal Wallis, who will start her on her movie career in "Affairs of Susan" with Joan Fontaine.

DEANNA DURBIN'S boy friend, Bob Landry, who is heading out to see her, may wind up in front of a camera instead of behind one—his regular job as a war correspondent-photographer. Lester Cowan is going to make a test of him to play himself in "G. I. Joe."

WHEN BETTY HUTTON gets up there and sings for our boys overseas she's going to have a couple million more fans. How they love her. I know, because when she used to go to Hollywood canteen they were crazy about her. Betty is the kind that doesn't know the meaning of the word tired—she just sings and cuts up until she's ready to drop. They told me at Paramount when she gets back her next picture, "Too Good to Be True," is a straight dramatic part and she will have the popular Sonny Tufts as leading man.

I HAPPENED to be at the Lew Schreibers at dinner when a long distance call from New York brought the news of Wendell Willkie's sudden and sad death. I have never seen men feel as badly as Darryl Zanuck, Joseph Schenck and Spyros Skouras. Mr. Skouras had had a premonition that all was not well all day and had been trying to get the hospital, even though the earlier papers had reported his condition was better. Willkie was chairman of the board of 20th Century-Fox and during his last visit he was the house guest of the Darryl Zanucks.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: What goes on with Xavier Cugat and Ann Marsh, wealthy New Yorker who is an every-night visitor at Ciro's; Franchot Tone is accepting that Broadway offer and will open in New York this winter; June Haver is also learning to drive; at Edith Gwynn's dinner the other eve the discussion was politics, music and war. I kept quiet and listened while Ouida Rathbone and Arthur Hornblow discussed Hollywood and the election. Joan Fontaine and Harry Crocker came in late, having been to a farewell party for Olivia de Havilland. They passed a really interesting debate; Eva Gabor is in the hospital for a checkup. She has been sick for two weeks. Maxie Rosenbloom's new racket is Betty Dunston, Hollywood's tallest show girl; Shirley Ross and Ken Dolan in a romantic mood at Slapsie Maxie's. These two are still crazy about each other.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10—One time there was a big prize fight at Madison Square Garden on Washington's birthday and Joe Humphreys, the announcer, climbed into the ring and said:

"We will now have one minute of silence—in memory of the late George Washington!"

So I now call upon you for one minute of seriousness in memory of the international conversations at Dumbarton Oaks.

These conversations were covered extensively by members of the foreign press, although what they wrote about is beyond me because the conversationalists declined to tell them anything. So far as the press was concerned it was one of the great dumb shows of history.

There was some loose talk among the more frivolous journalists of hiring an oyster shucker to see if the conversationalists could be opened up. But I understand nothing came of it. At least, no one found any pearls.

Nevertheless the foreign writers sent out reams of copy which cost their papers a lot of dough. Cable tolls, you may have heard, are nothing to sneeze at.

The journalists employed the old cablese stunt of running words together so that lines like "The President returned to the White House" became "Prezwhitehouseward" and went as one word

There are certain words, however, which are difficult to telescope. But one correspondent, finding himself up against cable tolls of 11 cents a word, conceived a brilliant formula; not only brilliant but devastatingly descriptive.

In every story he reported that the conversations were taking place at "Dumboaks!"

GEORGE GODDARD, the food expert, stalked into my office a few days ago and flung a pair of sox on the desk.

"This is utter nonsense!" he bellowed.

"It certainly is," I said. "And I will thank you to remove those things. What do you think this is—a laundry?"

"I do not mean that," said Mr. Goddard. "These sox do not need washing. They have never been worn. And, so far as I am concerned, they never will be."

I implored Mr. Goddard to calm down and unburden himself.

"It is this way," he said. "I asked the nanny to buy me some plain brown sox. I am a conservative fellow, although richly dressed and impeccably groomed at all times. I do not think it would be going too far to even describe me as debonair."

"The little woman," continued Mr. Goddard, beginning to snort again, "brought back these!"

I examined the sox. They were plain brown all over except for small squares at the back of the heel and in the toe. These were a violent yellow.

"That's what I mean," howled Mr. Goddard. "Why in h —— did they have to insert these yellow atrocities? It doesn't make sense."

"And," added Mr. Goddard, "the little woman said she searched all over Washington and couldn't find a single pair of sox that didn't have something horrid like this done to them."

* * *

I MIGHT SAY that I tried to solve the mystery for Mr. Goddard but got nowhere. The only thing I could learn is that plain-color sox are almost unobtainable.

Does anybody know the solution?

A NAVY OFFICER who has just returned from duty on a destroyer swears this is gospel truth.

He was assigned to handle the voting on his ship. So he called the men together, explained the provisions of the Soldier Vote law, and urged every man aboard who had the right to vote to avail himself of the sacred privilege.

He explained, in careful detail, that none of the officers was allowed to advise, to suggest, or even to intimate whom the men should vote for. Also, he added, the balloting had to be absolutely secret.

Well, the night after making the speech, this officer was assigned to the job of censoring the mail about to leave the ship. The first letter he picked up was from a New Jersey sailor.

The officer swears it began this way:

By George Dixon

"Dear Major Hague: My officer says I should vote in the election. Who do you want me to vote for this time . . .?"

THE SENATE'S committee investigating campaign expenditures is having a wonderful time. It is busy checking 168 organizations which seem to be up to their ears in current politics.

Five-page questionnaires have been sent to each of these organizations—and I would just love to get a look at some of them when they are filled out and returned.

If the responses are half as fascinating as the names of some of the outfits they will make absorbing reading. A few of the names are:

"The Girls Who Save Nickels to Elect a Republican President."

"Elect Roosevelt for Life."

"I Love America."

My only fear is that I may go completely berserk and join them all!

ALEC FINN'S LOVELY daughter, Marilynn, became the bride of S 2c Harold Bloomberg, son of a Cambridge merchant, at Temple Emmanuel, Newton, and the wedding reception at the Fox and Hounds Club was one of the most enjoyable functions of the fall season . . . One reason Ethel Merman refused the title role in "Sadie Thompson," a musicalization of the great hit, "Rain," was that the producers chose to eliminate "Wabash Blues" as the theme song of the dramatic action . . . "Wabash Blues" so perfectly fitted the action of "Rain" that it became an integral part of the play, and La Merman may not have been too silly in spurning the role.

Yavonsonne, the colorful one-time boss of the Fensgate, is due in town tomorrow—his first respite from an exile he didn't relish in Florida . . . AT THE PLAZA'S OVAL ROOM tomorrow night, the act which established records at the Satire Room, Noble and King, will begin a two weeks' engagement . . . Readers are recommended to the Oval Room while the Noble and King duo is current . . . There are no arrangements comparable to the grand duets (for piano and voice) which Harry Noble thinks up for himself and his lovely partner . . . The Noble and King twain has gone along considerably since its past Boston appearance (last winter) . . . RKO used them in two pictures and they were the hit of the Clover Club in Hollywood's "Strip" . . . And the song "Falling In Love," a Rodgers and Hart delight of a few seasons ago, which Noble and King featured at the Satire Room, has become a revived hit since Harry and Frances were here last.

NEW YORK being completely without a "mystery play," the Boston tryout "Meet a Body—" is conceded a chance for the big money . . . Both the producer, H. Al was one of the partners of Gallagher (Ed) and Shean, and their song, "Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Shean," was a great hit . . . Bryan Foy, one of Eddie Foy's nine children, wrote that number, and sold it outright for $50! . . . He should have netted now at least a quarter of a million!

ALL AROUND TOWN: Hollywoodites would be shocked to learn the identity of the celebrity who swooped over Sherry Britton too persistently and so amorously the other night that she was forced to seek refuge in the chorus girls' dressing room at Leon & Eddie's until he finally gave up the chase and left. He's the famed husband of a ditto star . . . Most eye-dazzling outfit in the Champagne room at El Morocco Thursday night belonged to Maria Montez: just a little girlish black jumper, but its blouse was made of solid gold sequins, blinding as a stare into the noonday sun . . . Incidentally, Maria says her husband, Jean Pierre Aumont, was wounded in Marseilles with the Free French . . . Myrna Loy, lunching at the Colony with Capt. Bleach Away Hair Growth

Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

THE WALRUS was right when he philosophized: "If life weren't so full of a number of things . . ." There's always something to worry a gal. If it isn't a vexing Sahara-like complexion . . . often it is superfluous hair . . . on the upper lip and chin . . . peeping through hose to thwart any war-time illusion of nylon sheerness . . . or giving a grass-like coverage to the arms.

That may be a stop-look-and-whistle creation atop your sleek coiffure . . . but, if under its haloed brim peeps a face sporting a chin stubble of stubborn bristly darkness . . . the projecting marring harshness spells fade-out for the number's intent. To say nothing of the annoyance an upper lip sprouting black wings can afford. What it does to the power of appeal can't be assembled in printed hieroglyphics.

Soft, feminine loveliness is the keynote today. And, if your nervous, wandering fingers hold in their languishing grasp a chin stub . . . or a pseudo-mustach in infancy . . . you might as well resign yourself to being the last rose of summer.

But, there is no need to sit home and sulk and make faces at yourself in the mirror which reflects the "bearded lady" cast. Cosmetic science . . . practically bordering on the revolutionary . . . with its fast-growing affinity for chemical science . . . has again come to your rescue. That unwanted, superfluous hair . . . how little or great its extent . . . can either be removed or bleached into invisibility.

PREFER BLEACHING WAY

I find many girls prefer the bleaching method . . . although the total removal method is just as efficacious and satisfactory. Either does a bangup job of blotting out those tiny, annoying bristles which pop up. Some other time we'll tell you about a cream remover.

For the bleaching out process . . . there is a three-in-one preparation which makes the hair so light that it defies detection. It can be used to bleach your locks into the lightest platinum blonde shade . . . and, with that the case, it certainly can bleach your superfluous hair into oblivion. The makers of this inexpensive bleach guarantee its efficacy. Full directions come in the package . . . and the whole job takes no longer than half an hour tops.

For the name of this superfluous hair eradicating bleach, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

YOUR GAMS may be as gorgeously-shaped as Columbia Star Ann Miller's famous dancing legs . . . but if they are not hair-free and smooth you can make no claim to beauty. Nor can you make any claim in charm if you permit a chin stubble . . . or upper lip and arm growth to go unchallenged . . . especially with an effective cosmetic aid at your beck and call.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Monday.—I merely mentioned the fact yesterday that Ethel Barrymore had come to tea the other day. I want to say that it was a joy to see her again, and that her charm and beauty have grown with the years.

I went to Hyde Park Saturday afternoon, taking a friend and two small boys with me. It was a busy but very pleasant week-end. Dr. and Mrs. David Lev came to luncheon on Sunday, and we visited the Wiltwyck School at Esopus, N. Y.

Otherwise, our time was spent in walking through the woods and rejoicing in this opportunity to be in the country.

TODAY I am back in New York city to keep several engagements and to see a number of people, which is what usually happens whenever it is rumored that I am to be here. Both in New York and in Washington, I can always fill up an hour or two listening to interesting problems that are brought to me. ★ ★ ★

A NEW RADIO SERIES, known as "Eternal Light" and sponsored by the Jewish Theological Seminary in co-operation with the National Broadcasting Co., was inaugurated Sunday.

It is unique in that it is the first broadcast religious program which is not a religious service. The premiere revolved around the story of the famous Touro Synagogue founded in pre-Revolutionary days.

It was to this synagogue that George Washington wrote his famous letter, in 1790, promising religious freedom to the Hebrew organization of Newport, R. I.

It's Suit Plus Cape

By BETTINA BEDWELL

FALL ensembles that are stepping out this month at the head of the style parade are apt to be composed of a suit and a cape. The top-class designers like to make this kind of ensemble, and some of the first-style girls I see are blending their own by pairing a cloth suit with a short fur cape.

The one sketched is a brilliant example of this style. It comes from Ben Reig, and the suit and cape are made of a warm medium brown wool, which gets its fine air of elegance by being paired with black. The hip-length jacket fastens down the front on jet embroidered buttons, and the cape is lined with black Persian lamb fur. A charming black moire blouse with a gathered bow neckline goes with this ensemble.

Puffy Dumplings Grand With Delicious Veal Stew

By MARTHA LEE

ONE-DISH MEALS should be the "stock in trade" of extra-busy homemakers, and a savory stew is undeniably a favorite. A stew, once started, requires little attention on the part of the cook. It is also amenable to change in the family's meal schedule without protest.

A stew is hearty fare; it does justice to appetites sharpened by the brisk snap of autumn air. Furthermore, a stew lends itself to easy variation; it never needs to lose its charm from frequent appearance on the menu. Just use a different cut of meat, try a new trick with seasonings or a different combination of vegetables, serve the stew in a new way—and the family will discover a new friend.

MENU

Veal Stew with Dumplings
Apricot and Cottage Cheese Salad on Lettuce
Cracked Wheat Bread
Butter or Margarine
Apple Turnovers Coffee

Special accompaniments, such as the puffy dumplings mentioned above, also add variety and interest to the meal. A refreshing salad makes a good balancer—a fruit combination or a tossed green salad being an excellent choice.

LESS-TENDER MEATS

Any less-tender cut of meat may be used for stew. The important point about the cooking is to be sure to have the liquid simmer, not boil. Browning the meat first and adding herbs and spices to the cooking water will increase the flavor.

VEAL STEW

2 lbs. veal stew meat
1½ tsp. salt Pepper
Flour 1½ tbsp. fat
Stock or water
6 small white onions
½ to 3 pieces celery
1 lb. green beans

Have veal cut in 2-inch pieces. Season with salt and pepper; dredge with flour. Heat the fat and brown the meat well on all sides. Cover with water or stock and let simmer in covered kettle for 2 hours. About 30 minutes before serving, add onions, celery cut in 4-inch strips and the beans. Fifteen minutes before serving, drop dumplings on top of meat and vegetables. Cover tightly and finish cooking. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

As for dumplings—make them tender and light, or you might as well not make them at all. A heavy, soggy dumpling is no compliment to the stew or to the cook. The first secret of good dumplings is to drop the dough (by spoonfuls) on top of the meat and vegetables, not into the liquid. The second secret is to let them steam about 15 minutes before removing the lid from the pan. Dumplings do not like to be watched. Another thing—dumplings should be served as soon as they're done.

Veal Stew With Dumplings

DUMPLINGS

1 tbsp. baking powder
1½ cups flour 1 tsp. salt
1 egg ½ cup milk
1 tbsp. lard

Sift flour once, measure and sift again with salt and baking powder. Beat egg until light. Add melted lard and milk. Combine liquid and dry mixtures and stir until flour disappears. Drop by spoonfuls on top of stew; cover and steam 15 minutes. Sprinkle with paprika when serving, if desired.

APPLE TURNOVERS

1½ cups coarsely chopped, pared apples 1 tbsp. sugar
½ tsp. cinnamon
Pinch salt Flaky pastry
Melted butter or margarine

Mix apples with sugar, cinnamon, and salt. Roll the pastry ⅛ inch thick then cut into 4-inch squares. Place a rounded tablespoonful of the apple mixture and ½ tsp. melted butter in center of each square. Dampen edges with water, then fold each square from corner to corner to form a triangle. Crimp edges together with a floured fork. Prick the top of each turnover with a fork to let steam escape, then place on a greased or oiled cookie sheet and bake in a hot oven of 450 deg. F. about 25 minutes. Makes 8 or 9 turnovers.

Benjamin Beale of Boston will have quite a circle of loved ones to wish them well at their picturesque little wedding next Saturday. The ceremony will be in the Post Chapel at the Jacksonville, Fla. ANOTHER distant wedding with a 41-42 Boston debutante as leading lady was that of Edith Child Bancroft, daughter of Guy Bancroft of Boston and Cohasset. She was married yesterday afternoon in Trinity Church, Portland, Ore., to Ens. C. A. Philippe von Hemert, USNR, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Philippe von Memert of New York and Manchester.

Mrs. C. A. P. von Hemert

The bride left for the West Coast last week accompanied by her father who gave her in marriage, Mrs Malcolm Bancroft, her sister-in-law and only attendant, and the groom's dad, who was best man.

Edith's bridal gown was white satin with a court train of Chinese brocade, a gift from the groom's mother, and a yoke and cap of rose point lace, also belonging to Mrs. von Hemert. Mrs. Bancroft wore a crownless hat of rose-rust velvet and carried matching fall flowers with her gown of pale blue taffeta.

The couple will make their home temporarily in Portland.

Dislike Distome

ALBANY, Ore., Oct. 10 (AP) —Irate residents of Berlin, Ore., claiming to represent most of the property owners have protested in county court against renaming it Distome.

Six men and women, bearing a petition signed by 76 other property owners, appealed to Judge E. G. Arnold to prevent what they described as a "high-handed" move to give the community the name of the Greek city razed by Nazis.

Judge Arnold placed the protest on file.

W. E. Miles, a farmer, heading protestants, branded the move an Albany Chamber of Commerce publicity scheme.

Maxwell Anderson, playwright and chairman of committee to perpetuate the name of the destroyed Greek city, had reported rechristening of the town would be marked by ceremonies.

Schoolboy Army In Paper Drive

More than 6000 Boston schoolboys today were canvassing 197,000 Boston homes, urging householders to aid in next week's waste paper collection.

The schoolboy army was trained by teachers in Grades 6, 7, 8 and 9 under direction of Asst. Supt of Schools Dennis C. Haley and Supt. Arthur L. Gould.

In a message to the schoolboy paper troopers, George C. Hyland, chairman of the Boston Salvage Committee, said:

"Boston has a proud record to maintain in the war effort. Let us break the record for collecting waste paper. Other cities look to us for leadership in this crisis. Start now so that the Army and Navy officials who are waiting for this paper will say, 'Well done, Boston schoolboys, Boston leads again'."

50 P. C. More Blood Gifts Urged

Bostonians must increase their blood bank donations by 50 per cent to meet added requirements of the Army and Navy, Officials of the Red Cross Blood Center, 187 Boylston st., announced today.

A quota of 3000 pints of whole blood shipped daily from Boston, New York, and Washington, to Europe, has been insufficient, Army and Navy officials revealed, asking that the quota be raised to 1500 pints. Boston donations for the past two weeks have fallen below the 3000 pints per week minimum which will maintain the whole blood and plasma quotas, officials said.

14 Bay Staters In 4-H Contests

Fourteen Massachusetts 4-H Club members, among them several members of the Junior Victory Army, have been selected to represent the state organization in national contests.

Barbara Nahlevski of Springfield will be the Massachusetts entrant in the dress revue at the National 4-H Club Congress at Chicago in December, it was announced yesterday by Miss Marion E. Fabes, assistant state 4-H club leader.

Barbara was one of six girls in the blue ribbon class at State Girls' Day at Massachusetts State College last July, and at that time modelled in a tailored woolen suit with a harmonizing winter coat trimmed with fur. She made the outfit herself using a sewing machine purchased with proceeds from sale of her first 4-H pig.

Other blue ribbon winners are Pauline Sanderson of Shirley, Janet Kidd of Lexington, Christine Micks of Easthampton, Arline Wordell of Westport and Marjorie Cade of Turners Falls.

In addition, Massachusetts will be represented by four teams at the National Junior Vegetable Growers' Ass'n contest next December in Rochester, N. Y. Arthur and Charles Nystrom of South Boston will demonstrate "Control of the Mexican Bean Beetle"; Leonard Roberts and Ernest Jensen of Granville will show "Preparation and Displaying of Vegetables on Roadside Stands"; Kenneth Parsons of Northampton and Russell Sears of Cummington will display "U. S. Standard Grades of Potatoes and Potato Defects," and Shirley and Peggy Leroy of Cheshire will demonstrate "Insect Control and Identification."

To join the JVA, send your name, age and full address to Junior Victory Army, Box 228, Boston, Mass. If, in addition to enlistment, you want the JVA insignia pin and membership card, enclose a 10-cent coin, well wrapped in your letter.

Helen Hayes Superb Plus In Colonial's 'Harriet' Hit

By FEGGY DOYLE

Helen Hayes is here again and all's right with the Hub's theatrical season.

Following two hit seasons in New York, Gilbert Miller last night at the Colonial presented Miss Hayes in "Harriet," the play based on the life of "the little woman who made a great war." Playwrights Florence Ryerson and Colin Clements have sketched in the entire clan of amazing Stowes who had a passion for crusading. But it is upon Harriet Beecher Stowe, the lone holdout for serene domesticity and a moratorium on "you-can't-beat-a-Beecher" declamatory contests, that they have lavished their typewriting.

Their industry and research have not brought forth a great, even a well-contrived play . . . Miss Hayes' shining artistry and inner glow only make it seem so.

After all these years of heartturning success, she continually surprises with her complete lack of stardust in the eyes.

In so many words or "sules," Harriet attains no sizable stature. It is in Miss Hayes' playing that the author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and 32 other books, who also found time to bear seven children and run a household, achieves dimensions, becomes a passionate pleader for the oppressed.

In the course of the performance, Miss Hayes is required to change from a radiant bride, in love as much with the idea of having a quiet retreat from the other Beechers as with her absent-minded professor-bridegroom, to the really famous member of the clan Beecher, now past middle age but not too old to be thrilled at having been President Lincoln's White House visitor. She accomplishes this with the greatest of skill, making it appear easy to pie.

As background for her quicksilver wit and dauntlessness are ranged the really formidable Beechers, from Harriet's father, the dominating, imperious Dr. Lyman Beecher; her famous preaching brother who had an eye for "box office" values, Henry Ward Beecher; Sister Catharine spinster-lecturer, and no mincer of words at hearth or on the platform.

Just where facts give way to fiction is doubtful but it would seem that there is a too antic quality about the sketching of that family portrait of Beechers at home. There is, too, too homegirl an aura about Harriet's writing for publication plumb in the midst of domestic sound and fury chez Stowe.

Robert Harrison's elder Beecher and Jane Seymour's Catharine, a pair of worthy adversaries, are among the few performancers retained from the original company. Both are excellent. Robert Emnardt's Calvin Stowe, Harriet's forgetful, ineffectual provider of a husband, is effective. There is nice work by Alberta Perkins, also of the original Broadway cast, in the role of the loyal colored family retainer, Auntie Zeb. Others, including Phyllis Renee Campbell and Lenore Wade, as Harriet's twin daughter, and Jean Lewis and Ralph Douglas, as her other offspring, turn in pleasing portrayals.

A generous production is a notable feature, with effective Lemuel Ayres settings and Alma Bernstein costumes. Elia Kazan's matchless job of direction is another important item on the credit side.

Need money? Go to Household and get a loan fitted to your needs. Borrow whatever amount you need—$20 to $1000—without fuss or delay—without endorsers or guarantors. Get a salary, car or furniture loan as suits you best. Repay in monthly instalments arranged to fit your own pocketbook. Pay charges only for the time you have the money.

Notre Dame Eleven Set for Big Green

By JACK CONWAY

THE NOTRE DAME-Dartmouth football clash at Fenway Park on Saturday will get the headlines now that the Cardinals have proved by conquering the Browns that class tells in baseball as is usually true in sports.

In passing, I wish to say that the Browns conducted themselves with great credit against a superior ball club, and that, while defeated, they gained considerable glory for themselves and for the American League.

Ed McKeever

The Browns' feat of winning the pennant in a desperate late September finish and then taking the first game of the World Series entitles the men of Luke Sewell more than passing consideration. They proved they were first class ball players and that they possessed more than their share of courage when the big chips were down.

Once the Cardinals broke loose in Saturday's game it was only a question of how long the series would last. The Browns could not expect their run of baseball luck to go on indefinitely.

The windup of the series will give the green light to football everywhere. The big teams are now fast reaching top form and some brilliant football clashes are expected.

Notre Dame will come to Boston following smashing victories over Pitt and Tulane. Ed McKeever's 1934 Irish club has the same fire and top ability that goes with Notre Dame teams.

Frank Dancewicz of Lynn has been the Notre Dame passer this year. He was an understudy to Angelo Bertelli and Johnny Lujack last fall. Dancewicz has finally received his big opportunity and he has made good.

Bob Kelly Top Back

BOB KELLY, former Chicago high school player, is the star of the Notre Dame backfield. Kelly was at Notre Dame last fall. He played his greatest game against the Army in the Yankee Stadium. Kelly will give Dartmouth plenty of trouble on Saturday.

George Sullivan of Walpole will be in the Notre Dame line. This sturdy tackle is of All-America calibre. He takes over the duties of Jim White who was All-America last fall.

Notre Dame, eager to make a fine showing in Boston, will throw all of its power and speed plus a wide variety of plays against Dartmouth. It wants to show Boston and New England football fans the kind of championship elevens that are turned out at South Bend.

Ed McKeever has many friends here and they will root for his sucess. McKeever was with Frank Leahy when the latter was head football coach at Boston College. He later went to Notre Dame with Leahy.

McKeever had charge of the Notre Dame eleven when Leahy was ill two years ago. He knows the Leahy football system and was the ideal man to take over the football destinies of the Irish when Leahy was commissioned a Navy lieutenant. Leahy is stationed somewhere in the Pacific.

Jannazzo Favorite

IZZY JANNAZZO, New York welterweight who will clash with Ray (Sugar) Robinson in a 10-round bout at a Goodwin A. C show at the Garden on Friday night, is a Boston favorite. Jannazzo has always given a good account of himself in Boston rings. Izzy is a fast, clever boxer, while he also hits hard and clean.

Jannazzo has been active in the ring, while Robinson has been in the Army. Robinson boxed numerous exhibition matches while in service, but such workouts do not compare with actual battles such as those in which Jannazzo engaged.

The Robinson-Jannazzo bout is one of the most important arranged for Boston this year. It is expected to furnish intense action. Robinson is the uncrowned welterweight champion of the world, and he cannot afford to drop a decision to Jannazzo at this stage of the career.

The Disabled Veterans Fund of the American-Record Sunday Advertiser will receive 10 per cent. of the gross receipts, while Robinson will give 20 per cent of his purse to the fund for servicemen.

In view of the national importance of the bout, the Gillette Safety Razor Co. will broadcast the batle over a hookup that will include 80 stations. Bill Corum and other broadcasting experts are today en route from the World Series in St. Louis to Boston for the fight.

Super-Duper Plays, Strikeouts Top Series

By JOE CASHMAN

EN ROUTE TO BOSTON, Oct. 10—The strike-out series has struck out.

Six fewer Cardinals than Browns whiffed in this whiffingest of all fall follies, and the Cards managed to win in six games.

The series hero was the third strike. The series goat was the third strike.

And the engagement crashes the record books with figures of futility which probably never will be erased.

The outcome may be forgotten, super-duper plays by Marty Marion, Whitey Kurowski and Blix Donelly may eventually escape memory.

But those strikers-out, in all likelihood, gained immortality.

Ninety-two batters fanning the breezes in a six-game tussle—49 Browns and 43 of the new world's champions.

Never before had more than 87 taken the count in a series of any length. That record was set in the Cards-Athletics seven-game set of 1931.

Never before had more than 44 batters on one club whiffed in a six-game series. The Brownies bettered that mark by five, the Cards fell only one shy of tying it.

There have been no records kept on pinch hitters fanning. But you can bet the Brownies established a mark when the last eight guys Manager Luke Sewell sent up to pinch hit missed third strikes.

WHAT STRIKEOUTS?

Mort Cooper took care of four of these in the Sunday game. Rookie Teddy Wilks eliminated the other four in Monday's finale.

The washday cleanup contest was similar to the first five frays.

Fifteen batters in all struck out—nine Browns against Max Lanier and Wilks, six Cards against Nelson Potter, George Muncrief and Jack Kramer.

The Cards played errorless ball, just as they had in four of the five earlier games.

The Browns miscued for the fifth straight game and gave away runs, just as they had in three of the previous battles.

The Cards made 10 hits and the Brownies only three, but the National Leaguers, in winning 3-1, triumphed on two unearned runs which registered as they did all their scoring in the fourth frame.

The Browns had broken the scoring ice in the second, when Chet Laabs tripled and George McQuinn singled.

Walk Cooper started the Cards off in the fourth by walking with one away. He took third on a Ray Sanders' single. Whitey Kurowski followed with a roller to Stephens. The latter's throw to second pulled Gutteridge off the bag. All hands were safe. The score was tied.

Marion fouled to left for what should have been the third out. Then Verban and Lanier singled, each safety rescuing a run.

CARDS THREATENED

The Cards threatened frequently thereafter but couldn't score again.

They took good care, though, that neither did the Brownies.

The American Leaguers didn't get a hit after the third inning, yet they came close to blasting the game wide open in the sixth.

A typical Cardinal hell-bent-for-leather play stopped them.

Lanier, wild from the start, walked both Laabs and McQuinn with one away in the chapter. His first serve to Christman hit the dirt for a wild pitch, each base runner advancing a station.

A hit might mean a tie game here.

Lefty Max was yanked. In came Wilks, who as the starting Cardinal chucker in the third game had failed to survive the third inning.

Christman hit in the hole between third and short. Kurowski raced over and with a long stretch nailed the ball on a hop, while moving toward second.

Only one play appeared possible. A throw to first that might or might not get Christman. But, being a Card, Whitey wasn't thinking of first base. He was thinking of Laabs racing toward the plate.

Trying for an out at home would be taking a chance in a million, considering where he was standing and the position he was in. Yet he took it and it clicked.

While looking at first, he somehow crossed his arm like a contortionist and pegged a strike to Cooper, who stood like Gibraltar until Laabs ran into him to be retired.

From there on Wilks was invincible. He gave not a hit. He let not a runner set foot on base.

The Cards never seemed to reach top form in the series, save perhaps in last Saturday's game, but they showed more than the Browns and clearly deserved to win.

The best hitter in the series was their weakest hitter over the campaign. Emil Verban, which proves they were below normal.

The only Brownie who really looked like a big leaguer all the way was George McQuinn, the series leading hitter.

The only Card, for that matter, who was truly outstanding was Marty Marion.

If it weren't for the Cards' greatest of shortstops, we'd never recall anything of the 1944 World Series except the strikeouts.

Each Card Gets $4334

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Each Cardinal will pick up approximately $4334 for winning the World Series while each Brown player will receive about $2842, out of the total player pool of $309,590.91, smallest since 1933.

Although the Cards did not announce their vote on cutting up the cash, it was assumed there would be about 30 shares, counting 22 eligible players, Manager Southworth, two coaches, players in the service, trainer and club house attendants. It was the smallest winners' pay since the Giants pocketed $4256.72 for beating Washington in 1933.

The Browns divided their portion into 29 full shares and three half cuts with six cash awards of unannounced value. It was the smallest losers' cut since 1926 when each Brooklyn Dodger took home only $2419.60.

Bay Staters Stud Notre Dame Clash

As in pre-war days, Dartmouth's lineup is studded with Bay State boys. Among the wearers of the green who will face Notre Dame's steamroller at Fenway Park Saturday are qb Charlie Holt, Melrose; tackle Bob Harvey, Wellesley Hills; fb Hal Clayton, Chelmsford; end Gerry Peck, Newton; guard Carl McKinnon, Everett; end Ray Barrett, Longmeadow; guard Art Young, Springfield; centers Gordon Grant, Weston, Stan Alger, Middleboro, and Larry Kepnes, Chelsea; lhb Dick Bennett, Waltham; backs Ralph Richardson, Malden, Joe Hayes, Newtonville and mayhap, Ed Gingrich, Winthrop.

Notre Dame likewise will have plenty of Bay Staters on the squad: end, Mark Limont, Hyannis; tackle, George Sullivan, Walpole; center, Art Statuto, Saugus; qb, Boley Dancewicz, Lynn; qb, Roger Cadieux, Springfield; back, Ed Clasby, Natick; back, Johnny Corbisero, Medford; tackle, Don Huntoon, Malden, and Frank Wainwright, Saugus. Limont, Dancewicz and Sullivan are certain starters.

TRIBUTES WELL PAID

Harvard's Henry Lamar paid high tribute to Floyd Stahl at the weekly sportswriters luncheon. "I'd be lost without him," said Lamar, and he wasn't foolin'. They turned out a well-drilled eleven at Cambridge, one that might well have remained undefeated against stiffer competition than Tufts, WPI and BC. "I thought we played our best game against WPI," said Lamar candidly. "We stopped Norige inside, Schmit outside. They were the offense" . . . After lauding BC's fine play (Sammartino, Baleyko, Donelan, Elliott, etc.) Lamar said that Guard Eddie Davis could have made any of Dick Harlow's teams, even the '37 outfit that starred Pfister and Peabody; that Chet Pierce had done some down field blocking; that Bob Chapple had run exceptionally well against all four Harvard foes and that only a broken finger (he couldn't pass) kept him from spending more time at Navin's lhb post.

★ ★ ★

Brown Coach Rip Engel said Army had enough material to play a variety of schedules, that it could let it's first three teams play powerhouses Notre Dame, Navy and Pre-Flight schools, that the fourth and fifth teams were good enough to defeat teams like Brown, Tufts, etc. Engel pointed with justifiable pride to the fact that Brown made nine first downs and gained 115 yards rushing against mammoth Army. "We never stopped trying," he said . . . Lew Manly reported that Tufts was healthy once again; that it had a chance against Worcester Poly in its first home game Saturday. Center Rautenberg, for example, had been out since the Harvard game . . . Week-end schedule: Friday night, BC vs. CCNY at Braves Field; Saturday, Dartmouth vs. Notre Dame at Fenway; Tufts vs. WPI at Oval; Sunday, HC vs. Villanova at Worcester; pro Yanks vs. Redskins at Fenway.

Eagles Ready For N. Y. Team

Emerging from the Harvard tilt unscathed save for a few minor injuries, the Boston College Eagles are going through daily workouts at Alumni Field with renewed vigor in preparation for their second game of the season against City College of New York under the mazdas at Braves Field on next Friday night.

The Eagle machine was really rolling during the second half at the Stadium Saturday and with a few breaks might have made the Crimson look to its laurels.

The game, from the experience angle, was worth more than a dozen scrimmage sessions since Coach Moody Sarno had a good opportunity to note the various flaws of the players and this week will be devoted to ironing out the errors.

The Cherokees, as the New York outfit is called, haven't too potent a team, which was evidenced by the fact that they dropped a game to Brooklyn College on Saturday last by a large score but, as was the case with the Maroon and Gold eleven, might have only needed a little more experience under their belt.

Sharkey Referees Doyle-Walton Bout

NEW BEDFORD—With former World Heavyweight Champion Jack Sharkey as referee, Jimmy Doyle of Los Angeles, a fine welterweight prospect from the West Coast, will make his eastern debut against Ralph Walton of Montreal in the 10 round feature at the Bristol Arena tonight.

Doyle, who has beaten the best in his section, is starting an eastern campaign.

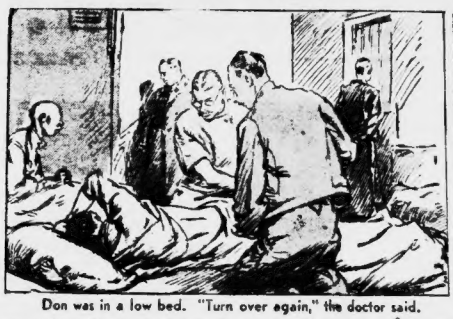
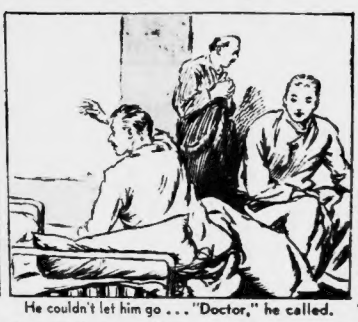
The Lost Weekend

❖ Based on the powerful, best-selling novel of five unforgettable days in a man's life ❖

BY CHARLES JACKSON
ILLUSTRATIONS BY F. R. GRUGER



Don was in a low bed. "Turn over again," the doctor said.



He couldn't let him go . . . "Doctor," he called.

"Want to see what you look like?" Bim asked.

LIKE a fish of the deep rising to the surface of bright air and sun, Don swam up to consciousness out of a dead blank into a whiter world than he had ever seen. He heard voices very near against a background medley of babblings and shrieks, moans and muttering.

He was lying prone and someone was working on his back. He flopped over and found himself in a low bed, so low that two men were kneeling on the edge. "Turn over again," one said; and the other, "Take it easy, baby."

"What's going on here? Where am I?"

"You're in the hospital, the alcoholic ward."

He didn't get this. What right had they to touch him? He heard the bedlam. "What's all that racket?"

"The others. Now relax. We want to draw off a little of the spinal fluid. Relieve the pressure on the brain."

"Oh no you're not!" He drew up his knees and his head exploded in pain above his eyes. They told him he had a slight fracture of the skull but he didn't believe it.

The doctor, a small man, spoke to the male nurse as if Don weren't there at all. "We can't give it to him without his consent, Bim. He seems to be in his right mind."

"Try him, Doctor."

The doctor turned back to Don. "What's your name?"

"Don Birnam," he answered, almost haughty. He gave his address, too. The doctor asked, "What year is it?"

"Nineteen thirty-six!" What month? "October." What day? Oh-oh. This is something he couldn't be sure of. "I—I'm sorry, I guess I don't know . . ." They went over the whole thing again and he gave the right answers except for the day. The doctor turned again to the nurse.

"All right, Bim. Give him some paraldehyde and let him go." He started down the room.

Don suddenly couldn't let him go like that. "Doctor," he called. The doctor went on without turning back.

The big male nurse was looking down at him. "What did you want?" Don asked him what day it actually was. "Sunday." Don sank back relieved; Wick would not be home yet.

Bim told him then that he had been brought in in an ambulance the day before. "You've got an awful black eye," he said. He drew a small round mirror from his pocket. "Want to see what you look like?"

Instinctively, Don raised his hand to his eye but he pulled away from the mirror. "No thank you . . ."

O'Donnell to Coach Marlboro Eleven

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Marlboro High School, leader in Class C, has inherited an ex-college coach for the duration in Cleo O'Donnell, the same fellow who master-minded Holy Cross and later St. Anselm's, and like their coach, the kids are playing big league football in their own little circuit.

It hasn't been accidental that the team has romped through four straight opponents in as many starts to take over the leadership in the Midland league as well as the class C ratings.

Marlboro gained its sea legs in its opening game against Natick 17-0, picked up stride the following week against Belmont (19-0), the team that punctured Weymouth's championship bubble, continued its torrid pace against Fitchburg (13-0) and then last week, trounced Milford (19-0). That's a grand total of 58 points, unrationed, in four games while the opposition sweated out exactly nothing.

Coach O'Donnell came out of retirement last fall to give his home town kids a coach after Ed Sullivan, then mentor, joined the armed forces. O'Donnell and his assistant, Stan Sikorski, former St. Anselm's halfback, fashioned their offensive and defensive last season for a mediocre payoff. Their investment in the squad is paying off now.

And with the entire town behind the team, there's a good possibility that O'Donnell's club will go on to a championship from here with Milford, Worcester Trade, Wellesley, Maynard, Framingham and Hudson ahead.

O'Donnell's offensive has been dominated by the all-round play of veteran quarterback, Capt. Walter Brennan, now playing his fourth season of schoolboy football. A mere 130-pounder, O'Donnell has been escaping everybody but college scouts who have been chasing him all over town. He can punt practically across town—in action—and his passes fit onto the hands of receivers like tailor-made gloves.

Brennan had a brother who played tackle for Holy Cross after leaving Marlboro and he has a kid brother Bill coming up with the freshman class. But this present Brennan looks like the top gridder in the family. And incidentally, he's captain elect of basketball and baseball so its easy to see why the college scouts are on his trail.

Brennan is surrounded in the starting backfield by Frank Seymour, a mighty 135-pound halfback who recently accepted seven of nine Brennan passes in one game, Tom Stevens, a nifty scatback, and Norman Boule, a smashing 165-pound line-cracker. Boule played last fall while Seymour and Stevens were subs.
